

Investigating the usability of a smart phone app to assess fatigue after acquired brain injury

Have you experienced fatigue after your brain injury? Do you use an android smart phone?

Would you be willing to take part in research at Oxford Brookes University and help to test out an initial prototype app?

We are looking for people to use an app on their phone for 6 days, wear an activity tracker and then be interviewed about their experience of using the app. The first meeting with the researcher would take place initially at Oxford Brookes or through a video call (for example skype). Taking part in the study would take between 2 and 3 hours of your time.
